Message from Brendan McGrath Chief Executive of Galway City Council

Galway City has a unique natural, built and cultural heritage which defines our identity and gives us a strong sense of pride and ownership.

This heritage needs to be protected, managed and nurtured in a manner that will promote increased awareness and sustainable enjoyment by all. The preparation and implementation of the City Heritage Plan 2016 - 21 is a key part in this process. It will, following the lead of the first heritage plan, continue to define the important place for heritage in the development of Galway City and will contribute to celebrate our status as European Capital of Culture in 2020.

The Heritage Plan following a process of public engagement has been adopted by the Members of Galway City Council. We now commence the task of implementation of the objectives in the plan through a programme of annual priority actions. These will rely on the commitment and partnership of all of the relevant agencies, organisations, groups and individuals. The realisation of these actions will also be dependent on the welcomed continued support from the Galway City Heritage Forum and the Heritage Council.

Tribute must be paid to all those involved in the preparation of the plan, in particular, the Heritage Forum which represents a wide range of community interests, the Planning Directorate and the City Council's Heritage Officer Dr. Jim Higgins. Credit must also be given to those who participated in the public consultation process.

Looking forward to the next five years I am both proud and confident that the implementation of this Heritage Plan will encourage greater awareness and appreciation of the unique, educational, economic and cultural value of heritage to the life of the city.

Brendan Mc Grath

Chief Executive of Galway City Council

Message from Mary Clancy Member of Galway City Heritage Forum

As a member of the Heritage Forum I am delighted to be involved in the preparation of the Galway City Heritage Plan 2016-21. Heritage plays a critical role in the social, cultural and educational life of the city. The plan both acknowledges this and the importance of community involvement in the protection and management of our heritage which needs to begin at local level.

Through the consultative process, including the participation of forum members who represent cross-community interests, a set of heritage needs and priorities were established for the plan. These in turn set the schedule for the implementation of a series of actions over the next five years for the care, management and promotion of heritage.

What will be particularly important for the realisation of the plan is the continued involvement of the community, heritage groups and individuals, as the plan is built on a partnership approach and needs and benefits from this approach.

I would like to specifically acknowledge the work of my fellow members on the Heritage Forum, the public who participated in the consultation process, the Heritage Council and Galway City Council for their work and support.

I am looking forward to the implementation of the plan over the next five years and to the realisation of many successful heritage projects that will benefit those living in, working in and visiting our great city.

Mary Clancy
Member of Galway City Heritage Forum

1.1 Heritage Plan 2015-20

In 2003, the Heritage Council prepared guidelines for the production of Local Heritage Plans. This heritage plan follows these guidelines, while being tailored to the particular heritage requirements for Galway City. This is the second Galway City Heritage Plan. It is one of twenty-eight prepared by Local Authorities throughout the state. The aim of the heritage plan is to identify, raise awareness of and promote the conservation of the built, natural and cultural heritage of the city.

The plan sets the overall framework for this work, which is to be carried out over the next five years. The plan outlines the heritage objectives expressed in themes and the associated actions, which it is intended to pursue and develop. The interpretation of Heritage is taken as that included for in the Heritage Act 1995 that is monuments, archaeology, heritage objects, architecture, flora, fauna, wildlife habitats, landscapes, seascapes wrecks, geology, heritage gardens, parks and inland waterways. A broadening of this interpretation to include elements of history and culture was considered appropriate by the Heritage Forum and also to reflect the current strategic vision for heritage in the city. The plan sets out how Galway City Council, in association with other stakeholders, will identify, manage and conserve heritage for the benefit of all citizens. The actions in the Heritage Plan will define the focus of work in areas of heritage and feed into the work projects on an annual basis. They will form the basis for the application for any available funding, in particular funding from the Heritage Council, other funding bodies and explore also the potential for private sector funding and partnerships with voluntary and state bodies. Galway City Council will also be a main contributor towards the implementation of actions through direct budget funding and allocation of resources. In this regard Galway City Council will endeavour to allocate both resources and funding on an annual basis.

1.2 The Achievements of Heritage Plan 2005-2011

This was the first heritage plan and was very ambitious with a range of 124 actions. These related to highlighting the broad areas and significance of heritage in the city. Since adoption in 2005, 38 of these actions have been completed or are ongoing. These achievements were wide ranging, the most significant ones have been listed in the tables included in Appendix 1. The implementation of actions was undertaken with the assistance of funding from the Heritage Council, direct support of Galway City Council, various stakeholders, and the community in general. The general thrust of the actions was research into the heritage of the city, natural and built, to increase general awareness and understanding. Increased awareness of heritage was also a result of implementation of these actions which were brought about through continued regular publication of Heritage Magazines, a Museum Newsletter, and various information leaflets relating to both the natural and built heritage. In addition the City Council website has been used also to ensure accessibility to a broad audience. Actions completed also included joint projects with Galway County Council Heritage Office and also community projects where schools projects were a particular focus.

Management of heritage has been an important consideration and in this regard resources were dedicated to assisting the preparation of the Register of Protected Structures (RPS), "Conservation Management and Interpretation Plan for Galway City Walls" 2013, assisting in applications for conservation heritage grants and grants for "Buildings at risk".

In recent years funding from central government has diminished. It is hoped that either funding will be restored or other mechanisms will be invoked to incentivise conservation projects in the future.

The actions completed also included a series of heritage conferences. Conferences were complemented by public exhibitions on associated heritage themes. It is anticipated that the objective to host future conferences will be continued where particular interests in heritage areas arise in the future.

The future emphasis for the plan will be on continuation of increasing awareness, collection and dissemination of information. There is a desire to continue the participation of the public in heritage education, management and to work with voluntary heritage organisations and educational bodies in the city and in partnership with the private sector. There will also be linkage with heritage work that is carried out in the context of the City Development Plan, the Biodiversity Plan. The promotion of Galway as a Bilingual City and joint projects with the Heritage Section of Galway County Council are a continued objective.

The preparation of a second Heritage Plan allows for the re-incorporation of the relevant remaining actions of the first plan. To implement all of these actions will be challenging in the current economic environment but this may also offer an opportunity to develop creative ways to further promote and respond to the heritage needs of the city without requiring direct funding.

The Heritage Plan will also include for actions that contributes to making the bid for Galway City to be a European Capital of Culture 2020 a success. In addition, the plan will span other significant events such as actions to support local initiatives to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the 1916 Rising and indeed the broad Decade of Centenaries. The rich literary and visual heritage in the city is also to be reflected noting the success of the recent designation of Galway as a permanent Unesco City of Film.

1.3 Plan Preparation

The proposed plan includes a legacy of actions from the previous plan in addition to a number of new actions relevant to the next few years. These include the actions brought forward by the Community, the Heritage Forum, the City Council, critical stakeholders and the Heritage Council.

The Heritage Forum is a non-statutory advisory group established by the City Council to provide advice on the preparation and implementation of the Heritage Plan. The Forum which works in a voluntary capacity is a significant asset in the preparation of the Plan. The Heritage Plan has been subject to a broad consultation process which involved the general public, interested bodies and the Heritage Council. After consultation all submissions and observations received were brought back to the Heritage Forum and subsequently resulted in a number of further inclusions in the plan. It has also been presented to the Strategic Policy Committee (SPC) and to the Members of Galway City Council for discussion and adoption.

It is anticipated that the Heritage Forum will meet at least twice annually following adoption to review progress of the Plan and to contribute ideas on how actions can be delivered.

1.4 Implementation

The Heritage Office, the various stakeholders and partners, and relevant sections of Galway City Council will endeavour to implement the Plan over the five years with direct support in particular from the Heritage Council. As referenced the Heritage Forum will also be a mechanism to assist in the delivery of the associated actions.

1.5 Funding

Applications will be made to the Heritage Council each year for funding towards the implementation of the actions of the Plan under the annual grant scheme. A proportion of the funding for actions will also be allocated from the annual heritage budget of the City Council. Applications will also be made to all other possible streams of funding. Some actions will not require finance but rather require dedicated support, advice and partnership. Acknowledging the limitations of funding streams, efforts will be made to include for direct involvement and partnership from the private sector.

1.6 Monitoring and Evaluation

Actions of the Heritage Plan are funded annually. Those actions, which are funded by the Heritage Council, are evaluated and monitored on an annual basis through a system of interim and final reports to the Heritage Council before funding is drawn down. The Heritage Forum will also be an important mechanism for monitoring and evaluation and will be in a position to prioritise actions and respond, reflecting where opportunities arise.

Themes and Actions

In 2003, the Heritage Council prepared guidelines for the production of Local Heritage Plans. This heritage plan follows these guidelines, while being tailored to the particular heritage requirements for Galway City. This is the second Galway City Heritage Plan. It is one of twenty-eight prepared by Local Authorities throughout the state. The aim of the heritage plan is to identify, raise awareness of and promote the conservation of the built, natural and cultural heritage of the city.

The themes are:

- Promotion of Heritage Awareness and Appreciation.
- Promotion of best practice in Heritage Conservation and Management.
- Collection and Dissemination of Heritage Information.
- Communicating Heritage to a wide audience and promotion of partnership.
- Caring for our Heritage while acknowledging the economic and tourism value to Galway City.

2.1 Promoting Heritage Awareness and Appreciation

- Increase awareness in schools through visual information and active participation on heritage buildings, geology, flora, and fauna, monuments, industrial archaeology, wildlife and the city waterways.
- Continue to support the protection of, and create an awareness of sites and centres of geological and importance.
- Promote the use of local stone in walls, boundaries, buildings and other features in new developments in the city.
- Organise Galway Heritage Conferences themed on topics of local heritage interest with links to the broader context.
- Research and publish heritage information, including museum catalogues.
- Raise awareness of the value of the natural heritage particularly in relation key areas in Galway City (e.g. Silver Strand, Barna Woods, Merlin Woods, Terryland Park) in accordance with the G.C.C. policy in the Recreation Amenity Study (2009)
- Promote the continued use of historical place names, which reflect the heritage of local areas.
- Promote the use of the Irish language and objective to establish Galway as the Bilingual Capital of Ireland.
- Continue to promote the use of the Irish language, particularly in the naming of new residential areas, and also in general usage in the Galway City.
- Continue to participate and support the aims of the Walled Towns Friendship Circle and in the Irish Walled Towns Network. Implement Conservation Management Plans for the Town Walls and their contextual setting based on the 'Conservation Management and Interpretation Plan for Galway Walled Town.' (2013)
- Continue to promote and participate in the Open House Architectural Days and similar significant heritage projects that provide opportunities for the public to view and learn about buildings of interest both in public and private ownership.
- Organise photographic competitions on the distinctive built and natural heritage of the city.

- Highlight the value of biodiversity through promotion of the National Biodiversity Plan and the objectives of the Galway City Biodiversity Action Plan. (2014-2024)
- Maximise the potential to add to the value of the Galway bid for European City of Culture 2020 through promotion of the unique heritage of Galway and the heritage links to the broader EU community.
- Maximise the use of the Galway City Council's website and social media in dispersing information on heritage.
- Contribute to the development of a County programme of events to mark the 100th anniversary of the 1916 rising which will include for a significant level of local engagement and other events associated with the decade of commemoration.

2.2 Promotion of Best Practice in Heritage Conservation and Management

3.2 Associated Glossary and list of Abbreviations

Alien Species - An alien species is a species introduced outside its normal distribution. Invasive alien species are alien species whose establishment and spread modify ecosystems, habitats, or species.

Archive - a public place where records are kept.

Biodiversity - A measure of diversity of species of plants and animals.

Conservation - Conservation embraces preventive conservation, remedial conservation and all the processes of looking after a place so as to retain its cultural significance.

Database - A structured set of data, especially one that is accessible in various ways more usually held in a computer

Ecclesiastical - Of or relating to the Christian Church or its clergy

Ecological sites - Sites of wildlife value.

Green Network - of A linked network of green areas, parks and open spaces ensuring a strategic integrated policy approach to the sustainable use and management these areas.

Habitats Directive Assessment (Appropriate Assessment) - An ecological assessment of the likely impact of any plan, programme, or project on the conservation objectives of Natura 2000 sites, (Special Protection Areas and candidate Special Areas of Conservation). This is a requirement of Article 6 of the Habitats Directive (92/43/EEC).

Inventory - A complete list of items such as property, goods artefacts or contents of a building.

Natural Heritage Areas (NHAs) - These designated areas form a network of sites of national importance by reason of their flora, fauna, habitat type and/or geomorphological interest. Most NHA areas in the city are incorporated into the two cSAC designations. The Wildlife Act 2000 provides the legal basis for designation and for a level of protection broadly comparable to that provided for cSACs in the 1997 Habitats Regulations.

Strategic Environmental Assessment - The Strategic Environmental Assessment (SEA) Directive (2001/42/EC) requires that an environmental assessment is carried out on certain plans and programmes which are likely to have significant effects on the environment. A SEA is a systematic process of predicting and evaluating the likely environmental effects of implementing a proposed plan in order to ensure that these effects are appropriately addressed at the earliest appropriate stage of decision-making.

Special Areas of Conservation (Candidate) (cSAC) - The Habitats Directive (92/43/EEC) was transposed into Irish law by S.I. 94 of 1997, the EC (Natural Habitats) Regulations 1997. cSACs are marine and terrestrial areas of international importance that have been designated for the protection of wildlife habitats and species (other than birds), which form part of EU Natura 2000 network of ecologically significant sites throughout Europe.

Special protection measures should be applied regarding these habitats of specified wildlife species. Two significant cSACs exist in the city, the Galway Bay Complex and Lough Corrib Complex. The boundaries of cSACs can overlap with Special Protection Areas for protection of birds or they can contain pNHAs.

Special Protection Areas (SPAs) - SPAs are sites designated to protect internationally important and rare bird species and their associated habitats. The Inner Galway Bay SPA encircles the coastal and offshore area including the bay and islands. The designated protection area provides for a wide range of seabirds and waterfowl and their associated breeding colonies and habitats including Annex 1 bird species. Annex 1 is a catalogue of species and subspecies that, in the EU, are threatened with extinction, or vulnerable in certain changes of their habitats, or scarce due to small populations or restricted regional distribution, or demand special caution due to the special nature of their habitats.

Preservation - Is defined as the act or process of applying measures to sustain the existing form, integrity, and material of a building or structure, and the existing form and vegetative cover of a site. It may include initial stabilization work, where necessary, as well as ongoing maintenance of the historic building materials.

Walled Town - A fortified place, especially a large, permanent military stronghold that includes a town.

Intangible Heritage - The intangible cultural heritage is transmitted from generation to generation, and is constantly recreated by communities and groups, in response to their environment, their interaction with nature, and their history. It provides people with a sense of identity and continuity, and promotes respect for cultural diversity and human creativity.
